Honeycomb-shaped specimens were prepared by the hot pressing of a mixture of HAP (hydroxyapatite,  $\text{Ca}_{10}(\text{PO}_4)_6(\text{OH})_2$ ) and colloidal silica to produce an apatite-silica composite which was then subjected to hot isostatic pressing at 450-500 degrees C. In this study, the apatite-silica composite was used as a starting material and it was treated in various ways to obtain glass-ceramics with different microstructures and crystallinity. The mechanical strength and bioactivity of these ceramics were tested, and a preliminary assessment of their potential in orthopedic applications was made. The ceramic microstructure was characterized by X-ray diffraction, scanning electron microscopy, and mercury intrusion porosimetry. The bioactivity of the glass-ceramics was studied in vitro, and it was shown that the HAP crystals in the glass-ceramics could be converted to hydroxyapatite after incubation in simulated body fluid for 1 month.

Donetsk: Five days of fighting in the eastern Ukrainian city that left almost a dozen people dead and many more injured, has triggered a warning from the EU over the risks of renewed violence. Rebels in the city fired back last Thursday after a local official in the building was shot dead by what appeared to be an automatic weapon. The fighting that ensued left 13 people dead, wounded hundreds and left much of the city under the control of government forces, AFP reported. "Fearing for the safety of the population, I have ordered a temporary closure of the airport," said the city's interim mayor on Friday. "All buses in and out of the city are being held at checkpoints, and I am personally monitoring the situation." In

At 9:00 a.m. last Friday, Paul Eswiney, the E.E. “Bud” Baumgardner Professor of Music, premiered a composition by Jody Schlegel, a professor of cello, on a cello by J.C. Huber. Both Schlegel’s and Huber’s cellos have a minor third below the sounding pitch, and so the cello players’ bows are made of different lengths. The cello has a longer piece of bow, so that the bow pressure on the fingerboard creates a different tonal quality than is found on a shorter cello. These differences are audible through the cello body. Using just these differences, Schlegel has created a piece of music which is beautiful to hear. While it was a great pleasure to see and hear Professor Schlegel’s piece performed by the cellist, I wish to express my deep appreciation to Professor Baumgardner, who first asked Professor Schlegel to write this composition, and who oversaw its creation and premiere.

Smallholder poverty alleviation Smallholder poverty alleviation is a fundamental goal of Sustainable Development Goal 6 of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals, which were adopted in 2015. Poverty A person is considered to be living in poverty if they have a per capita income of $1.25 a day or less. The International Labour Organization defined minimum living standards for the years 1990 and 2003. In 2015, the World Bank defined and compared poverty in different countries. They base their calculations on the World Bank poverty lines, which also determines the international minimum standards. Smallholder farmers The UN defines smallholder farmers as “those who are mainly engaged in the production of subsistence crops for their own consumption” and who do not produce for profit or are not involved in agricultural production in the secondary or tertiary sectors. This definition does not include farm workers or hired agricultural labourers or seasonal workers. However, they may be considered to be smallholders if their primary occupation is agriculture. The UN defines smallholder farmers as individuals who are “mainly engaged in the production of subsistence crops for their own consumption” and who do not produce for profit or are not involved in agricultural
